

Catherine A. Salvato

Katherine Salvato is a results-oriented health care professional with over 35 years of leadership, managerial and clinical experience. A high point in her career has been partnering in the acquisition of a small Delaware-based nursing company, and growing it into an award-winning health care training organization.

Dr. Salvato is the Director of Education for Bayhealth Medical Center. She also is the RN Refresher Course Coordinator for the University of Delaware. Earlier in her career, she co-founded Corexcel, Inc., a training company dedicated to developing and delivering programs for the pharmaceutical and healthcare industries. She was a Clinical Nursing Educator for the Visiting Nurse Association of Delaware and served with the Joint Commission Accreditation on Healthcare Organizations, assessing healthcare facilities' compliance with national and federal standards. She was a Major in the United States Army, Army Nurse Corps, where she was a Nurse Trainer.

Dr. Salvato received her B.S. in Nursing and her MSN in Nursing Administration from the University of Delaware, and her Ed. D. in Organizational Leadership from Wilmington University. The recipient of numerous awards, she also has served on the board of directors of the American Lung Association, the Alzheimer's Association Delaware Chapter and the Delaware Nurses Association. She has published several articles dealing with healthcare.

For recreation, Dr. Salvato enjoys hiking the mountains of Acadia National Park in Bar Harbor, Maine, and is a Civil War enthusiast.
